The moto of CRAFT is Practical Hope so in a general sense this issue is very much orientated around such hope: And in particular the Artificer/Bush Mechanic relates directly to:

Issue 1 Biochar - esp. the its making and the fabrication of the retorts (red tile). See: <http://crafters-circle.com/archive2011/>

Issues 2&3: Brisbane's radical movement of the 1960's and 1970's - esp. direct social action tiles esp. Martin L King tile and Student Guerrilla tile. See: <http://crafters-circle.com/craft2.html> and <http://crafters-circle.com/craft3.html>

Issue 4: Transhumanism - esp. the artificer represents in effect the counter point to the augmented human rather our Bushy exemplifies the practical aspect of 'becoming fully-human rather than becoming trans-human. See: <http://crafters-circle.com/craft4.html>

Issue 5: Letters to My Brother: The Art of Practical New Zealand Environmentalism – esp. Digging in T6 and Community Engagement T17. See: <http://crafters-circle.com/craft5.html>

Issue 6: Disability Accessibility – esp. the first 15 exhibits/tiles which are on the practical aspects of disability accessibility (first 15 tiles + Men's Shed and action Learning tiles). See: <http://www.crafters-connect.com/?p=155>)

Issue 7: Byron - esp. the practical aspects of social action (controversy tile). See: <http://www.crafters-connect.com/?p=466>
