

New Work Styles : Yearning, Earning & Learning

A Discussion to be held Tuesday, 23rd September, 2001, 7:30 - 9:00pm at 11a Sussex St., West End

- Have you become retrenched? Accepted a voluntary redundancy? Become unemployed for any reason? Or it is possible that this may happen to you in the near future?
- Do you have a reasonable amount / lots / loads of experience from your previous employment or other community or family activity?
- Does the idea of working from 9 - 5, 5 days a week, with perhaps overtime year in year out no longer appeal to you? Do you want quality time with your family or to pursue another interest in life?
- Do you have a range of skills and experience that you can build / have built into a portfolio of earning opportunities?
- Have you been applying for job after job to be told you're too experienced / don't have up-to-date skills / too old / not flexible enough or worse still not hearing anything back or getting condescending responses?
- Would you like to consider alternatives to the standard job which hasn't been available since you've been looking?
- Would you like to be contributing to the community and maintaining, even updating your skills, although you can't find paid employment?

Being able to answer yes to any number of these questions may mean that you could be interested in exploring a New way of Working and living ie. NeWork.

Learning and earning can work together towards our yearning for quality of life. Welcome to a New way of Working and Learning - welcome to NeWork.
